

Interview Questions for Choose on Purpose

What is it about twentysomethings that deserves our attention?

You say twentysomethings have a sense of entitlement that's been encouraged by their parents, the Baby Boomers. What does that mean, and what are the implications?

What can parents do to support their kids without turning them into boomerangs?

70 million twentysomethings are in, or soon-to-be in, the job market. What impact is that having on employers?

Post-secondary schools and even high schools are prominent players in the lives of many twentysomethings. What can learning institutions do to assist young people in making the shift from youth to adulthood?

For even more ideas contact:

Kirstin Berg, Media & Publicity Partner
202-494-6884
kirstin.berg@ChooseOnPurpose.com